Tiki has a very helpful and dedicated community that in most of the case is able to provide free support however, Tiki is really very powerful and with so many features and options some users may require or prefer fast and experienced solution versus the community support.

We came forward and create a network of Tiki Consultants (or service providers) that can support a Tiki project in all aspects. Most are part to the Tiki project for years and are able to provide a very wide variety of services.

Hiring a Tiki consultant allow them to focus on Tiki and help to provide real life reports and experiences to share back with in the Tiki Community. If you are providing services for Tiki, please submit your candidacy as Tiki consultant.

I've been making themes (aka templates or skins) for Tiki since version 1.6 or so, and have been fortunate to work on many interesting projects along the way. In addition to working on the theme-related code in Tiki itself, I previously shepherded the mods.tiki.org themes to keep them up to date, and now create aftermarket themes listed at themes.tiki.org. I also take on contract jobs mostly involving creating or adapting themes for Tiki, and installing and configuring Tiki sites.

I have 15+ years developing technical content for software, including user guides, tutorials, training material, and online help. I am a member of the Tiki Software Community Association and frequent contributor to the Tiki codebase and support forums. My beginner's guide, Tiki for Dummies Smarties, and its followup, Tiki Essentials have been major sources of support for the Tiki Community.
