Hi Folks,

John Miller here. I'm an Sr. Software Developer specializing in embedded systems programming. I'm using tiki in two projects.

At work I've created a collaboration portal. Old habits die hard though and it is difficult to get anybody signed on to use the new system, as cool as it may be.

At home I'm an ultralight flying enthusiast, so I just now (12/14/03) am working on getting that sight up. I'm strugggling with the templates right now. I've seen some pretty cool sites that look nothing like the templates that bundeled with the software.

If I get this stuff figured out, I may write an article on my findings, but we've got a ways to go before that happens. (CSS's are not my forte and neither is Smarty!!)🙄

Best regards
