

Live support puts you on-call when your users need you. With the click of a button, a user may request help from a live support operator. The live support module automatically opens upon acceptance a chat window between the user and operator.

Full documentation at doc Live Support and related pages

For more information

---

You can test this on one machine, although you need to use two different browsers to allow you to connect to your site as two different Tiki users.